

“The City of London has seen a sustained reduction in crime for the past ten years. These figures are pleasing, but what is more important is the story behind them: officers working hard to make sure fewer members of our community become victims of crime. That the Square Mile remains a very safe place is thanks not only to police but also to the work of our community, particularly the City of London Crime Prevention Association and Safer City Partnership. The consistent fall in crime is our reward for those efforts.”

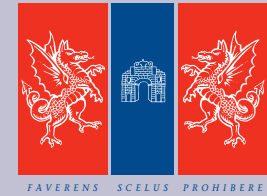

Adrian Leppard,
Commissioner of Police for the City of London.

CITY OF LONDON
CRIME PREVENTION
ASSOCIATION

The aim of the City of London Crime Prevention Association is to prevent and deter crime in the financial, commercial and residential sectors within the City of London.

The City of London Crime Prevention Association is a forum that exists to encourage co-operation in developing crime prevention measures between the City of London Corporation, the City of London Police, the security industry and the financial, retail, commercial and residential communities.

Knowing the risks, understanding what can be done to tackle the risks, and providing members with a network of like-minded professionals, is the thrust behind the CoLCPA.

The Patron of the CoLCPA is the Chairman of the Police Authority for the City of London. With over 300 members, primarily from the financial and business sectors within the City of London and other security communities around London, the Association is unique in the United Kingdom.

Membership benefits of the CoLCPA include:

A programme of regular events covering a range of current topics such as counter terrorism, security technology, IT security, cyber crime, identity theft, fraud, pre-employment/client screening, business continuity, travel safety and more.

Specialist speakers who are experts in their respective fields and cover current and emerging topics and threats.

A range of high-level updates from the City of London Police on crime and counter-terrorism issues.

Attendance and support from prominent members and local officers of the City of London Police at all monthly meetings and other events, enabling discussion and debate on crime prevention advice and emerging trends.

Notification of events being held within the City of London that may affect the business and residential communities.

Information and advice available on crime prevention from the City of London Police, the City of London Corporation and other organisations.

Networking opportunities to meet with like-minded professionals. Many members of the CoLCPA do not have City-based offices, but work in the security field and benefit from the updates provided and the opportunity to learn from like-minded members.

Participation in a highly respected, professional association that adheres to a code of conduct.

City Security magazine issued on a complimentary basis four times a year.

Prestigious locations of meetings held at historic locations such as the Livery Halls in the City of London.

Although the CoLCPA is an independent organisation, it benefits from essential guidance and support from the City of London Police and the City of London Corporation.

Such is the importance attached to the continuation and development of the CoLCPA that personal encouragement has been given by the Home Office, the Chairman of the Police Authority for the City of London and the Commissioner of the City of London Police.

The Association has been granted charitable status and, to this end, has provided financial support to a number of crime prevention initiatives and projects embracing the City community as a whole.
